

Origami bloem

Liefelijke bloemen gevouwen van zes stukken papier, aan elkaar gemaakt met chenilledraad en gedecoreerd met goudkleurige kralen. Een idee waar zelfs beginners mee uit te voeten kunnen.

1.

Cut three pieces of paper for the leaves and three pieces of paper for the flower. All six pieces have the same measurements. □ A small flower: 4 x 7cm □ A large flower: 5 x 9cm □ Fold in half lengthwise.

2.

Unfold and fold all four corners towards the fold in the middle.

3.

Fold the two long sides towards the middle fold.

4.

Turn over and double over the paper which is intended to be the actual flower, so it looks like the photo.

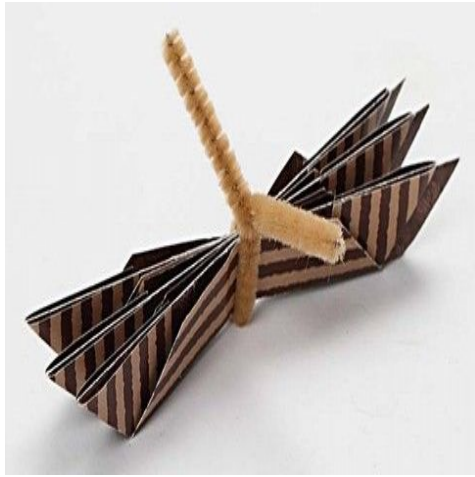

5.

Fold the paper in the middle which is intended to be the leaves.

6.

Arrange the six pieces in pairs as shown in the photo.

7.

Turn the three sets of paper 180 degrees and gather with a pipe cleaner twisted around itself. This locks the stack.

8.

Cut off the ends and decorate with gold wax beads.

9.

Unfold the six tips...

10.

... so that they are shaped like a star.

11.

Unfold the corolla first. Pull a bit at the sides whilst pressing down onto the leaf.

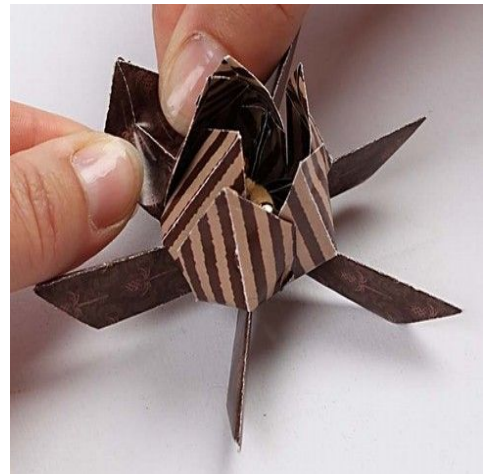

12.

Be careful not to be too rough. The paper may break at the joint.

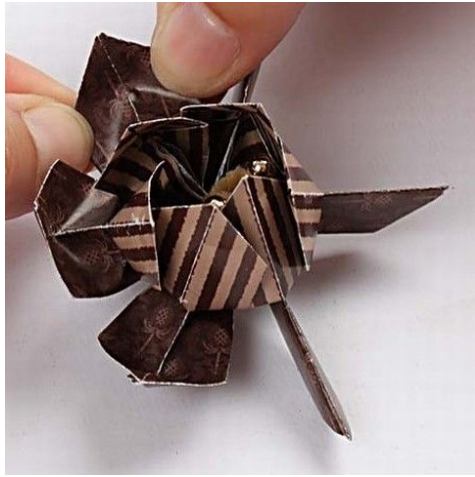

13.

So far so good.

14.

Repeat the procedure with the leaves.

And the lotus flower is finished.
